

Storytelling

Stories have the power to inform, inspire, connect, and mobilize. Stories can cut through rhetoric and show the reality of the world around us — successes, challenges, and everything in between. With many competing opinions on how to implement digital learning effectively, compelling stories can influence decision-makers, and inspire people and communities to action.

Digital Promise can help leadership understand the importance and effectiveness of storytelling, and prepare students and teachers to plan, capture and produce stories.

How We Engage

We will help you develop a custom plan to meet the needs of your district.

Solution
